Emergency response to disasters: Fast procurement and last-mile delivery

Over one billion people are living in countries affected by protracted humanitarian crisis. In most of these settings, saving lives depends on how fast relief gets to affected populations. For decades, Crown Agents' procurement and last mile delivery expertise has saved lives by acting fast to deliver medicine, food and supplies in the shortest time possible.

We work in some of the most hard-to-reach and volatile contexts in the world and prioritise people most in need. We respond to sudden onset emergencies – within as little as 24-72 hours – and draw on our expertise in supply chain management, fund management, needs assessments, capacity building of national partners and health systems strengthening to deliver results in complex landscapes. From leading global disaster response to the 2015 Nepal earthquake, the Ebola crisis in Sierra Leone, to being on the frontline assisting global governments, multilateral organisations and the private sector to respond to the immediate needs of the COVID-19 outbreak in 50 countries – Crown Agents are your 'go to' partner delivering life-changing and life-saving solutions to complex challenges for millions of people.

Our success in delivering large-scale, multi-year humanitarian programming in protracted crises hinges on the strong, long-term relationships we build with national actors, which enable us to rapidly adapt and respond to changing contexts. For example, we are running the Humanitarian Assistance and Resilience Programme Facility (HARP-F) in Myanmar for 2016-2021, through which we have reached 900,000 people and 63% of the internally displaced people in Rakhine, Kachin and Northern Shan.

Importantly, Crown Agents offers a bespoke humanitarian response to many global corporate partners who seek our help in providing life-saving relief to their staff, supply chain and markets wherever disaster strikes across the globe. The recent surge in COVID-19 infections that resulted in a global demand in oxygen saw us provide oxygen concentrators and medicines within days across several countries. Through our world-leading integrated procurement, warehousing and freight forwarding solutions, we offer one of the world's only complete end-to-end logistics service package specialising in humanitarian response.

By swiftly standing with us and supporting our emergency response programme, you will help to save lives during times of emergency when your donations are most needed.
